Candlelight Ski – January 30, 2009

The annual popular winter event, the Candlelight Ski, will be held on January 30, 2009 from 6 - 9 P.M. The Red Cedar State Trail and the Stokke Trail will be lit with luminaries. New this year is the opportunity to snowshoe on an illuminated trail at neighboring Riverside Park. With the snow that we have had this season, it shapes up to be a great night to enjoy these winter activities. The Red Cedar State Trail will be open for skiing from the Depot to the ice wall, about 1.5 miles. We ask walkers to be respectful of the groomed Red Cedar State Trail and refrain from walking on it. For those wishing to ski, it is advisable that you bring your own skis. Limited ski rentals will be available from Stout Adventures by calling Tim Mertz at 232-5190, in advance. The Stokke Trail will be cleared to provide the opportunity for those wishing to take a candlelight walk. For those interested in snowshoeing, either bring your own snowshoes, or free snowshoes will be provided by the Menomonie School District for everyone in the family to hike at Riverside Park.

The Depot will be open and staffed with volunteers who can provide information about the Red Cedar State Trail and Hoffman Hills. Of interest are the many displays in the Depot. Passes will not be required that evening; however, yearly trail passes will be available for sale. Also, for sale, will be Red Cedar State Trail merchandise.

After skiing or walking, warm up with a cup of hot chocolate provided by Swiss Miss and join everyone around the glowing bonfire. It is a fun time for the whole family to experience the joys of winter.

This event is organized by the Friends of the Red Cedar State Trail & Hoffman Hills, Swiss Miss and the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

A Free Night of Fun for All!!

TRAIL MANAGER'S REPORTSCOTT ERICKSON

As many of you may be aware we are currently under a "hiring freeze" and we do not know when the Manager's position will be filled. We are currently very short of staff due to recent retirements, employees leaving the agency and strained budgets. I want to thank all of you who have helped out with your volunteer time to keep things going. We will need to depend on more volunteer work in future years if we are going to continue to operate the way we do today. One change we are trying to make is by having volunteers groom the ski trails at Hoffman Hills and it is a bit of a struggle. On December 6th, we held a grooming training session with several volunteers showing interest to be trained to groom cross country ski trails. The session went well and as Bob and I left the property we were somewhat confident that we could continue to have the ski trails at Hoffman Hills groomed with the help of volunteers.

Since that time we have realized that we need more help from volunteers. If you or someone you know is interested in helping out with the grooming please contact us as we are very willing to work with you in accomplishing the task of having groomed ski trails at Hoffman Hills Recreation Area. Thank You.

We have decided to make more use of this WEB site by also not sending out paper copies of every newsletter, and instead, informing you by postcard when an issue of the newsletter has been added to the WEB site. Current plans are to mail paper versions twice a year: at the beginning and at the middle of the year. You are encouraged to explore this WEB site as there are a number of items of interest.

FRIENDS OF THE RED CEDAR STATE TRAIL & HOFFMAN HILLS MEETING SCHEDULEEveryone is Welcome

Regular Meetings ---First Thursday of the odd months (Jan., March, May, July, Sept., Nov.)

Time: 7 P.M.

Place: Leisure Services Center (Senior Center), Menomonie

WEB Site: <http://redcedarhoffman.org/>

FROM THE ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS (OCTOBER 26, 2008) BRUCE BROTHERSMILES OF COLOR - WISCONSIN'S RED CEDAR TRAIL IS LOVELY ANY TIME OF YEAR, BUT IN THE FALL, IT'S STUNNING.

Three minutes after swinging onto your bicycle seat at the Red Cedar trailhead in Menomonie, Wis., you're immersed in nature. The drone of office discussions, car wheels on asphalt and gas-powered yard equipment are quickly forgotten after you glide onto the hard-packed limestone trail where the most noticeable sounds are the murmur of wind rustling through leaves and water rushing over submerged rocks. The scenery's not bad, either.

A bit more than an hour's drive from downtown St. Paul, the Red Cedar State Trail can provide an afternoon of perspiration, a day of relaxation or large doses of both. A picturesque escape at any time of year -- people ski and snowshoe there during the winter -- Wisconsin's Red Cedar Trail becomes a 14 1/2-mile kaleidoscope of color in fall. The turning leaves paint a backdrop that veers between beautiful and breathtaking, sometimes on the distant bluffs and sometimes within an arm's reach.

Allow plenty of extra time if you carry a camera, because you'll want to stop again and again.

I was introduced to the Red Cedar this summer, and I keep going back, even though I feel I have to leave my more nimble road bike home and use my hybrid bike with its fat tires. The trail is certainly navigable by road bike, unlike most of the gravelly limestone trails in the Twin Cities, but the preponderance of riders on the Red Cedar seem to be in no big hurry. That suits me just fine.

If you're enthusiastic, the Red Cedar connects with the Chippewa River State Trail, a paved trail that can carry you east to Eau Claire or south to Durand. But start early: From Menomonie to Eau Claire and back is more than 70 miles. Durand, however, is an easy 7 1/2-mile segment from the end of the Red Cedar, the 42-mile round trip doable in an afternoon.

This is rural Wisconsin, with the trail mostly hugging a river that once served as a highway for logs floating downstream. You pass cornfields and the villages of Irvington and Downsville before arriving at the Dunnville Wildlife Area at the Red Cedar's southern tip. Menomonie, Durand and Eau Claire have nearby restaurants and convenience stores, but you'll have to depart the trail to find food in between.

BACK TO NATURE

Two of us from St. Paul cycled the length of the Red Cedar and then along the less scenic Chippewa River Trail to Caryville on Labor Day, only to find the lone gas station there shut for the holiday. Fortunately, vending machines outside the building served up cold drinks. But that's part of the appeal of such a trail. You're isolated in nature.

The showpiece of these miles of converted railroad corridors is the Red Cedar, where you can ride from one end to the other and back, spotting bald eagles, hawks, wild turkeys and maybe even a deer or fox or two.

A trail pass costs $4 daily or $20 annually.

The trail passes the historic Dunnville Cutstone Quarry (no trespassing) and ends at a wood-planked railroad trestle more than 800 feet long that crosses the Chippewa River. On an 80-degree day early in the fall, my friend and I pulled to a halt and watched a very bold young man scale the iron scaffolding to the top, then moon the folks at a sandy river beach more than 50 feet below before saluting and leaping to the water. When his head finally popped back above the surface after several long seconds, the onlookers cheered and applauded. Not everyone was so enthralled; a man straddling his bicycle near me shook his head, climbed back on the bike and pedaled away, offering the comment that he was in no mood to have to dig out his cell phone to dial 9-1-1.

PRIVATE PARADISE

A month later, on a gray day, both the beach and the bridge were deserted as we pedaled across the spectacular span where a smooth, wood surface recently had been applied. It had taken us nearly two hours to cruise 14 1/2 miles as we stopped many times for photographs, but neither the oncoming chill nor the waning daylight seemed to matter as we pivoted to the north and pedaled back along otherwise empty stretches of trail. It seemed unlikely we would be hauling our bikes back to the Red Cedar Trail before next spring -- though a fine fall day could lead to a spontaneous decision to sneak back one last time -- so neither of us was in any hurry. This ride is one experience worth savoring.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI CORNERBARB GORMAN

Usually this column lets folks know about the condition of the ski trails due to either the generosity of, or lack of, Mother Nature in providing snow. Mother Nature to date has been generous and the cross-country ski season is a happy benefactor. Both the Red Cedar State Trail and Hoffman Hills are in excellent condition. Tracks for diagonal striding are in place and the mid-section of the trails are in good shape for the skate striders.

Now that the ski report has been given, this column would like to give a salute to the groomers. On December 6, 2008, Scott Erickson and Bob Goers of the DNR gave an outstanding training on how to groom, with special focus on grooming at Hoffman Hills. The State budget does not get any kinder and as a result, volunteer groomers were needed at Hoffman Hills as well as for the Red Cedar State Trail. A call for groomers was made and several people generously responded. Most of the volunteers identified wanting to groom the Red Cedar State Trail, so more groomers are needed for Hoffman Hills.

Jim Janowak retreats from retirement to groom at Hoffman Hills. Todd Burns and Chris Ruch have also joined the ranks of Hoffman Hills groomers, but more are needed due to job and time constraints. Grooming is hard at times, but also very rewarding. One of the groomers for the Red Cedar State Trail had several of us who attended the December 6, 2008 training in laughter about the trials and tribulations that occur during grooming. We were also told of the beauty and rewards of the work. The amount of work and time given by the groomers is appreciated. This is one of the reasons why efforts are made to keep the trails in good groomed condition. Walking/hiking on the designated ski trails damages the grooming. This column salutes and thanks those who have volunteered to groom and those who have been doing the grooming: Bruce Jordan, Evan Jordan, Ron Pfiffner, Dan Haug, Jim Tenorio, Joe Plouff, John Wesolek, Chris Ruch, Todd Burns, Bill Kryshak and Jim Janowak.

We are still very much in need of volunteer groomers at Hoffman Hills. Please call Barb Gorman at 235-1725, if you are interested and have the time. Thank-You Groomers!

DUES REMINDER

The Friends of the Red Cedar State Trail & Hoffman Hills is a non-profit support organization dedicated to enhancing the recreational and educational opportunities by sponsoring, promoting and funding many activities as well as participating in projects that help to maintain and improve the Red Cedar State Trail and Hoffman Hills. The Friends group derives its funding from dues paid by individuals and businesses, donations, grants and a percentage of trail pass revenues. These funds provide resources for interpretive programs, volunteer workdays and community events such as the Annual Candlelight Ski. As a reminder, dues can be paid by using the form on the last page of this newsletter and mailing to the address indicated. As a dues paying member, you will receive a membership card, newsletters and information on Friends activities.

Thank You for your support.

INTERESTED IN VOLUNTEERING

The Red Cedar State Trail and Hoffman Hills are indeed treasures that we locals enjoy as well as the many visitors that they attract. With State Funding cut-backs for trails, the role that volunteer groups play is becoming increasingly important. There are a number of opportunities available where help is needed. Some of the opportunities include eradicating invasive species, working on exhibits, gardening at the depot, repairing bird houses, trail projects, working in the depot, becoming a trail ambassador, or helping with special programs such as the Candlelight Ski and National Trails Day. If you are interested, or have any questions regarding volunteering, contact any of the board members. You will be rewarded knowing that you had a hand in preserving and maintaining these resources.

The Friends of the Red Cedar State Trail & Hoffman Hills would like to thank all of you who have volunteered in the past on various projects. Thank You.
